PAUL GILMORE

In "The Call of the North" One of the Early Attractions at the Opera House.

The wide variety of roles in which Paul Gilmore has been seen as a star will be increased this coming season with still another style of character, that of the dashing young voyager, Ned Trent, in "The Call of the North," which is different from any part he has ever played before. Trent is a daring young adventurer who defies the powerful opposition of the historical old Hudson Bay company to hunt and trade with the Indians in their territory in the Northern part of Canada. A favorite method of disposing of these offenders after other punishments had proved futile was to send the captive free trader on a terrible journey called "la longue traversée." In this event, the captive was stripped of all weapons, ammunition and other outfit, furnished with barely enough food to last him a day or two, and sent out from the fortified post known as "Conjuror's House," to make the long and hopeless trip of four hundred miles unarmed and unaccompanied. The nearest civilization. His chance of surviving was especially nil, for he did not get lost in the wilderness and die of fatigue or starve, he would almost certainly be killed and devoured by wild animals in his defenseless state, but to make assurance doubly sure, an Indian was put on his trail, armed and provisioned, to see that the unfortunate voyager should never reach civilization alive. The words, "la longue traversée" had assumed a dark and sinister meaning to the denizens of the Canadian frontier and few men dared to brave the opposition of the relentless Hudson Bay company in the fur trade of their territory. In the play, "The Call of the North" Ned Trent is a daring young "free trader," who with all his recklessness possesses a keen sense of humor and ready wit, who laughs in the face of danger and defies the Factor, or head authority of the company, and when captured and threatened with "la longue traversée," outwits them all, makes love to the Factor's daughter and ridicules his captors, just the sort of hero the whole world loves, and a character exactly suited to Mr. Paul Gilmore's talents for both romance and comedy.

GRANITEVILLE.

The death of Norman L. Evans, which occurred on Monday morning last after a brief illness from peritonitis, cast a gloom over the entire community. It was hoped until near the close of his life that he would recover, but on the Sabbath evening alarming symptoms developed and his brief and loving life was soon ended. The abundance of beautiful floral tributes of every description evinced the fact that Norman was a favorite with all the people. The funeral, which was largely attended by a deeply sympathetic community, was held on Wednesday in the Presbyterian church at two o'clock in the afternoon. His remains were laid in the cemetery at Graniteville and now he is missed in the church and Sabbath school, which he loved, missing the Knights of King Arthur, of which he was a member, missed in a community bereaved by his death among playmates where he was decidedly popular and at the public school, where his work was unexcelled and where the sincerity of his efforts and the good impressions made by his manly and lovable character were admitted and felt by his classmates. But it is in his own home where he will be missed most, where he was dutiful and obedient to his parents. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Evans. Norman was 11 years and seven months old when he died. The floral gifts were as follows: sweet peas and ferns, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warren; sweet peas and ferns, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Belville and family; sweet peas, Mrs. O. H. Hurlbut; pillows, Norman's neighbors and friends; asters and amaranths, Mr. and Mrs. H. McDonald; sweet peas and ferns, Leonard Pallas; sweet peas and ferns, Margaret Enright; carnations and amaranths, Bertha and Frankie McLean; white roses, Alexander and Charles McKinnon; pansies, Master Frank McLeod; mixed bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Carr, Northfield; carnations, Bertha Murray; sweet peas, Amelia Varnum; sweet peas, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McAnulty; mixed bouquet, Lizzie and Mamie Coxen; asters, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fales, rosen and asters, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Barton; mixed bouquet, Maggie Fraser; sweet peas, Mrs. Willey; petunias, Howard Guy; mixed bouquet, Maggie Roberts; and violet furs, asters, and amaranths, Hattie McLeod; Mrs. Leslie McLeod; cut flowers, Mr. and Mrs. John Griffin, Hyde Park; lilies, Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins; broken willow, Mr. and Mrs. G. MacArthur; pillow, "At Rest," Muriel and Catherine Melver; pansies and sweet peas, Master William McLean; star, Queenie MacArthur and Pearl McLeod; sweet peas and ferns, Agnes and Arvid Olson; sweet peas, Lillian and Gertrude Olson; pond lilies, Boutwell, Milne and Varnum; sweet peas, pansies and ferns, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. McDonald; sweet peas, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McRae; asters, Beginald and Allan Rayerst; mixed bouquet, Mrs. Malcolm McLeod; wreath, Mrs. Button and Mrs. Cutler; asters, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Stewart; sweet peas, Mr. and Mrs. Norman McLeod; sweet peas, William and Herbert McLeod; sweet peas, Dolores and Katie McAnulty; nasturtiums, Jeannine Morrison; pansies and sweet peas, Stella Morrison; carnations and ferns, Master John Morrison; hollyhocks, Mary Nicholson; mixed bouquet, Kenneth Nicholson; anchor, Queenie MacArthur; carnations and asters, Mrs. G. EVER HAVE IT?

If You Have, the Statement of This Barre Citizen Will Interest You.

Ever have a "low-down" pain in the back? In the "small," right over the hips? That's the home of backache. It's caused by sick kidneys. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it. Barre people endorse this. Read a case of it:
Mrs. Margaret Reid, 40 Maple avenue, Barre, Vt., says: "I gave a statement in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills in 1905, and I am glad to confirm it at this time. For more than three years I was bothered off and on by backaches and at night I would suffer so intensely that I could not sleep. During damp weather I was always worse and although I wore plasters, I obtained only temporary relief. When Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me, I procured a box at E. A. Brown's drug store. They relieved me in a short time and I continued taking them until the pain in my back was entirely relieved."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

IN BOSTON MARKETS.

A Firmer Feeling Is Noted in the Butter Market.

Boston, Aug. 14.—A firmer feeling is noted in the local butter market, especially for strictly fine creamery stock, the receipts of which have been light during the past week or so and the supply of which is rather meagre. The receipts of all kinds have been lighter than they were recently, but the offerings of butter grading just under fancy are large enough. The demand for cheese is quiet, but the receipts are light and first costs are high and prices are well maintained. Eggs are quieter than they have been, but there is no weakening of prices, at least not on good stock, as supplies are not heavy.
Jobbing quotations:
Butter—Fancy northern creamery tubs 29 1/2 @ 30, boxes 31 @ 31 1/2, prints 32 @ 33, western ash tubs 28 @ 29, dairy 27 @ 28.
Cheese—New York full cream 15 1/2 @ 16, Vermont full cream 15 @ 15 1/2, Wisconsin young America 16 1/2 @ 17, sage cheese 15 1/2 @ 16.
Eggs—Fancy henmy 33 @ 34, choice eastern 30 @ 31, fresh western 26 @ 28.
Yesterday's receipts—Butter 10,755 tubs and 3,619 boxes, weighing 574,584 pounds; cheese 3,283 local packages, eggs 2,549 cases.

Butter was steady in Chicago yesterday at 26c for extras and at 25c for packing stock; receipts 10,636 tubs. Eggs were steady at 22c for prime firsts, at 20 1/2c for firsts and at 19 for ordinary firsts; receipts, 9,988 cases.
Eggs were steady in St. Louis at 18 1/2c.
Liverpool quoted Canadian cheese at 58s for colored and at 57s for white.

The Speaker's Disgrace.

At the afternoon session of the Prohibition convention the delegates, among whom the women greatly predominated, were extremely enthusiastic over the cold water issue, and every resolution in furtherance of the Prohibition cause was upheld aggressively and unanimously.
Toward the end of the session the speaker of the day was announced. This gentleman had recently returned from abroad, where he had been recuperating from his arduous work in behalf of temperance. Smilingly acknowledging his tumultuous reception, this speaker at once plunged into the pleasant events of his foreign trip.

In the midst of this interesting narrative, a lady delegate from a rural district sprang to her feet, her eyes blazing.
"I protest against such goings on as this!" she cried, glaring at the narrator. "He's a shame!"
"Sit down!"
"Let him proceed!" declared the irate delegate, sending a scornful glance at her fellow members. "I say it's a shame a disgrace and a deplorable thing for that man, who poses as an apostle of temperance and a hater of ginshops, to stand up there and deliberately tell us that on his way across the Atlantic he spent many delightful evenings in the ship's saloon!"—Brooklyn Life.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to heartily thank our neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our dear son and brother, Norman Evans, also for the many floral tributes.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Bachelor's Kitchen.

The players sit in a row, with the exception of one, who walks before them and asks each what she will give to help furnish the bachelor's kitchen. Each may answer anything she pleases, but no two can give the same thing.
Then the questioner goes back to the first in the row and asks a dozen questions, to all of which the others must answer only by naming the article he or she has given. Of course the answers will be very absurd, but any one who laughs must pay a forfeit.
For instance, the questioner asks: "What did you give to the bachelor's kitchen?"
A—"A dishcloth."
Q—"What do you carry in your pocket?"
A—"A dishcloth."
Q—"What do you wear on your head?"
A—"A dishcloth."
Q—"What do you sleep on at night?"
A—"A dishcloth."
And so on.

Gallery of Statues.

For this game all the company leave the room with the exception of two. One of these then stands like a statue, with perhaps the assistance of a tablecloth or something similar, as drapery, while the other acts as showman.
When the position is decided upon one of the company is called in and taken on one side by the showman and is asked his or her opinion as to the merits of the statue. It is almost certain that some suggestion will be made. In that case the newcomer is made to assume the attitude suggested, and another player is called in, to whom the same question is put and another suggestion made and adopted. As each statue is added to the gallery a great deal of merriment is caused, and in a short time a large collection will be obtained.

What and Why Riddles.

What question is that to which you must always answer "Yes?"
What does "y-e-e" spell?
What four letters of the alphabet would frighten a thief?
O I C U.
What is the difference between a new five cent piece and an old fashioned quarter?
Twenty cents.
Why is a wick of a candle like Athens?
Because it is in Greece.
Why is a fender like Westminster abbey?
Because it contains the ashes of the great.
What is that which a car cannot move without and yet is not in the least useful?
A noise.

A Common Error.

An error that is frequently made and for which there should be no excuse save that of ignorance is often said to be the result of hurried composition, but you will admit that that is less than no excuse at all. It is the use of the objective case instead of the possessive before a gerund or verbal noun ending in ing. As an illustration, take this phrase that was inadvertently published in a newspaper: "To prevent them making a rush." Of course this error may be corrected in one of two ways: "To prevent their making a rush," or "to prevent them from making a rush." If you will think only a moment the reason will be obvious.—Chicago News.

Flowers—A Game.

The company divides itself into equal sides, and each side must have a "home" in opposite corners of the lawn. The sides retire to their own "homes," and one side privately chooses a flower, then crosses over to the other side and gives the initial letter of that flower. The children on the second side must try to guess the name of the flower, and when they have done so they catch as many as they can of the opposite side before they reach their "home."
Those caught must go over to the other side, and the game goes on until one side has won all the children. The sides take it in turns to give the name of the flower.

An Unwritten Sentence.

There is one sentence in the English language which cannot be written properly, though it is correct when spoken. Here is the sentence, though, of course, there is no rule for writing it: "There are three twos in the English language." But the problem is, how is one to know which two—or to—too—to write? We have the three twos, but we must spell each of the three differently, so the sentence cannot be written correctly.

A Numerical Puzzle.

What can we add to nine so as to make it six? Just add "ix" and you have it. Nine is "IX," and if you add "ix" to this it makes "ix," doesn't it?
"Stratulation For Opium Users."
Gratifying progress in the anti-opium crusade in China is reported by the North China Daily News. In a recent issue it said: "The anti-opium commissioners have decided on the opium prohibition laws on a graduated scale. From the current year till the fifth year of Hsuan Tung the maximum penalty for officials who should smoke opium will be stratulation. In the sixth year this punishment will be extended to gentry and in another year to the common people."
